New York City Entertaining the Chinese Viceroy To-day.

A MOST INTERESTING PROGRAMME

To Review a Parade of Police and Street Sweepers and Witness the Fire Dopartment in a Mock Second Alarm Fire Exhibition.

New York, Sept. 1 .-- To-day's programme for the entertainment of Li Hung Chang, or part of it at least, will be of particular interest to the people, as it includes outdoor exercises, which in themselves will be somewhat exciting, besides affording a good opportunity to gain a view of the distinguished old Chinaman. All the arrangements for the joint parade of the police, fire and street cleaning departments, which is take place this aftercoon, were finally completed this morning, and were stated by Chief Conlin as follows: The visiting party will leave the hotel Waldorf at 1 o'clock, proceed under mounted police escort down Fifth avenue to Washington Square park, to Fourth street, to Broadway to Leonard street, where the Merchants' club lunch on will be served. Inspector McCullagh with a squad of twenty men will police the streets in the vicinity of the hotel. Inspector Brooks will be in command near the club. After luncheon the party will leave at about 3 o'clock for Union Square park, returning over the same route. Acting Inspector Harley will be in charge at the grand stand. He will keep the piazza clear from Broadway to Fourth avenue and on Fourth avenue from Fifteenth to Seventeenth street. Acting Inspector O'Keefe will have charge of the police on Broadway from Fourth street to Leonard street. The police from Thirty-third street on Fifth avenue to the park will be under Acting Inspector Thompson. Capt. Collins of the park police will have charge of the park.

Exhibition by Firemen.

The police will form in line at 2:15 o'clock in Washington Square park and will be in charge of Inspector Cortright. They will march up Fifth avenue to Sixteenth street; the line resting on the right at Broadway, where ther will wait till the guests are seated on the grand stand. The street cleaning department to the number of 400 men will form in Sixteenth street east of Fourth avenue, resting on the right. After the police and street cleaning department shall have passed the review stand the viceroy will pull a firebox, sounding a second alarm, which will bring all the engines which answer a second alarm of fire in front of the grand stand. They will give an exni-bition on scaling ladders, and will climb ladders which will be not actuate some building in the vicinity. When this is completed they will remove their rubber coats and boots and parale past the stand. After this the visiting party win enter their carrages and return to the hotel, going through Sixteenth street to ratch AVELUE

Gov. Morten To Greet Li.

Gavernor Morton is in N-w York city to-day and wis joined last evening by Co., Asniev W. Cole, his private secretary, and Cot. Selden E. Marvin, jr., mintary secretary. The governor win pay his respects as chief respistrate of the state to vicerov Li Hung Coang and will attend the lunchcon to be given by the Merchants' club this afternoon, and the dinner at Delmonicos in the evening tendered the distinguished ambassador by the Chinese merchants and the consulgeneral at New York.

The Reception in Brooklyn.

The arrangements for the reception of Li Hung Chang in Brooklyn tomorrow were completed to-day, and the invitations were sent out by Mayor Wurster and William Berri, president of the Union League. Mr. Berri will meet the viceroy at the hotel Waldorf at 10 o'clock, and he will be escorted to the New York and Brooklyn bridge by a platoon of the New York mounted police. At the middle of the bridge the party will be met by a platoon of Brooklyn mounted police and the New York squad will be dismissed. At the bridge plaza the viceroy and his escort will be met by Mayor Wurster and his calnuet, and thence will proceed to the nawy yard. where the ceremony will be of the simplest nature. From the navy yard the party will proceed to Prospect park, and after a drive through the park will go to the Union League club house, where the reception will be held. In addition to the members of the club, the city and county officials and various gentlemen have been inwited to participate in the reception.

ALL RUSSIA SHOCKED | TONS OF DOCUMENTS

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 1.-Many of | The Death of Prince Lobanoff a Great Blow.

HE WAS THE EMPIRE'S CREAT MAN

His Policy Regarding the Eastern Question, Which Was a Peril to the Feace of Europe, May Now Se Changed.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—The news of the sudden death of Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky in a ranway carriage near Kieff Sunday night while traveling with the ezar, has caused the most intense excitement throughout Russia. as the personanty of the minister of foreign affairs was considered to be second only to the czar himself. Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky pursued a strong foreign policy-a policy which was regarded in some quarters as threatening the peace of the world. Eesides his positical work the prince devoted his lessure hours to the study of and to the writing of works on Russian history. The tour which he had planued to take with the ezar through the countries of western Europe was expected to be the most far-reaching in results affecting the settlement of the eastern question. Emperor Franers Joseph paid Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky the highest honors during the recent visit of the czar to Vienna, and his death at the presest juncture is regarded as a most dramatic and important event, upsetting as it does all possibilities of conferences between the foreign ministers of the great powers and compelling the czar to change the plans concerning his tour through Germany, France and England.

Details of Prince Lubanuff's Death.

The following details of the death of Prince Lovanorf-Rostovsky have been obtained. During the progress of the imperial special train, on which Prince Lobanoff was traveling, the czar, desiring to take a walk to break the monotony of the long journey, ordered the train to be halted close to a small wood near the Schepetovka station. The entire imperial party alighted and started for a walk in the wood. Prince Lobanoff had taken only a few steps when he complained of feeling indisposed and expressed a wish to return to the train. Upon reaching the carriage in which he was travcling he was unable to mount the steps without assistance, and immediately after entering it fell to the floor unconscious. A doctor was summoned at once, but the prince was lead before the physician arrived. Death was due to uneurism. Prince Lobanoff's body was taken to Kieff. where it was embalmed.

Complained of Feeling Itl.

Vienna, Sept 1.-The Fremdenblatt says that write Prince Lobanoff-Roslovsky was in Vienna he complained of colliculty in breatning, which he atributed to calcification of the arteries. le said he hoped to take a course of nassage at Brasian. When he accompanied Count van Eulenburg, the German ambassador here, on a visit to Count Nigra, the Italian ambassador to Austria-Hungary, the prince had an attack of faintness so severe that he nearly lost consciousness and it was owing to this that he changed his plans and started for Kieff instead of remaining longer in this city. The ezar has summoned the deputy of the Russian minister for foreign affairs, M. Chichkine, to Kieff.

St. Lawrence Park.

Albany, Sept. 1 .- The state fisheries, game and forest commission will meet in this city on Sept. 8, and at he conclusion of the meeting the ommission will leave for Alexandria Bay to confer with the Angler's assosintion of the St. Lawrence river, with .view of ascertaining data preliminary to the framing of legislation, to be reported to the next legislature, for the government, supervision and maintenance of the St. Lawrence park, which was created by an act of the ast legislature, and which comprises ill the islands in the St. Lawrence river contiguous to New York state.

Wholesale Distribution of Politica' Literature at Washington.

THE WORK RUNNING AT FULL SPEED

8,000,000 Documents Already Sent Out by the Republican Committee and the Democrats Are Distributing 150,000 a Day.

Washington, Sept. 1 .- With the presidential election nine weeks off the several political committees here are running at full speed supplying siterature. So far the republican committe has sent out 8,060,000 documents and will continue to send them out at the rate of 500,000 per day. The democratic committee is now well supplied with documents. It has already sent out 3,000,000 copies of documents and its daily output will be 159 000 per day from to-day. The silver committee, Secretary Difenderfer said, will, within the next ten days, send out 2,000,000 documents. The populists have sent out 3,000,000 documents, and are now sending out 100,-000 per day. From the democratic, populist and silver headquarters, the documents are sent to individuals and clubs direct, while most of the literature supplied by the republican committee is sent to the state central committees and by them distributed to clubs and individuals.

BRYAN AT CLEVELAND. Incidents in the Democratic Nominee's

Journey Westward.

Cleveland, Sept. 1.-The journey made by candilate Bryan from Ripley, N. Y., to Cleveland was marked principally by the demonstration at Ashtabula, O., where nearly 3,000 people gathered about his car and displayed much enthusizsm. Frevious to reaching Ashtabula the candidate was cheered at North East, Pa., where a number of people also shook his hand. The handshaking process was repeated in the station at Erie, Pa. where the train stopped ten minutes. At Conneaut, the first stop was made in Major McKinley's state, Mr. and Mrs. Rryan were greated by Daniel McConviller chairman of the democratic executive committee of Ohio; L. E. Hoiden of the Cleveland Plaindealer, a member of the Cleveland reception committee, his son and daughter, and H. L. Chapman of Jackson, who will be appointed a member of the state democratic executive committee. There was considerable enthusiasm at Conneaut and calls for a speech, but Mr. Bryan did not gratify the desire.

BANK ROBBED AT RIPLEY.

The Clerks Were Watching the Bryan

Erie, Pa., Sept. 1.—The gang of neak thieves and pickpockets who have been following Withiam J. Bryan in his campaign tour and working the crowds that go to hear him speak, made a haul yesterday afternoon in Ripley, where Mr. Bryan made a speech on leaving for Cleveland. While the Bryan procession was passing E. A. Stringer's Ripley branch of the First National bank of Westfield the cierks went our to look at the candidate. When they returned all the ready cash, amounting to $963, was missing.

INDIANAPOLIS CONVENTION.

Expected That 42 States Will Be Represented and Nearty 900 Delegates Present.

Indianapolis, Sept. 1.-The convention of the national democratic party, as the party is now called, which is to open here to-morrow noon, promises to be pretty largely attended. Those in charge say that forty-two states will be represented and that nearly nine hundred delegates are expected to be present. Last night's trains did not bring in many delegates, and they are still scarce in the convention city. The influx is expected to-night and to-morrow morning. Perry Belmont of New York was among the latest arrivals. The sentiment among those already here seems to favor Bragg or Vilas for the head of the ticket and Buckner for vice-president.

Bond Issue Declared Ille gal.

Pittsburg, Sept. 1 .- An issue of municipal bonds to the amount or $1,400,000 made recently by the city of Atlegheny is now pronounced illegal because of the fact the call for the election to authorize the bond issue was published in the Pittsburg newspapers, instead of in the newspapers of the district where the bonds were issued, as the law requires. It this is correct ail the bonds isued by the city. of Allegheny since 1874 are involved. I'me situation is a most serious one.

Kipting To Go Abroad.

New York, Sept. 1 .- Radgerl Kiping will leave on the steamer Lahn of the North German Lloyd line tolay for a tour abroad which may last several years. His plan is somewhat on efinite. The celebrated novelist via take his wife and their two chiearen. They will spend the winter in southern Europe and travel later in India, where he bepes to gather matiria for more stories.

HOKE SMITH'S RESIGNATION. It Took Effect Last Night, But He Will

resignation of secretary Hoke Smith

Instruct His successor. Washington, Sept. 1.—Although the practically took effect at the close of the department last evening, he will probably remain for a day or so at the department at the urgent request of his successor, Gov. Francis, who will not be able to arrange his business affairs at St. Louis to reach his post of duty until to-morrow or probably Thursday. Secretary Francis will find most branches of the business of the department up to date and upon current work. Secretary Smith last evening gave out a statement describing the business that has for more than three years been under his supervision and what he has accomplished during that period, dwelling principally upon the settlement of conflicting land cases in the great western territory. Many thousand of these had accumulated when he entered office, he says, but by dilligence and labor a great mass of them has been disposed of. In his statement he calls attention to the work of the last force in adjudicating these claims and shows that since March 3, 1893, to date, there has been an increase of 1.935 cases disposed of over those of the same period prior to 1893. Secretary Smith showed that the result of his policy to preserve forest reservations would ultimately result in their better preservation; also his improvement in the matter of issuing patents tends to prevent delavs. His adherence to the rules of civil service and general improvements in the various branches of the departments are also shown in the state-

SHARKEY AFTER CORBETT.

if Not in a Ring. New York, Sept. 1.—Tom Sharkey. accompanied by his manager D. J. Lynch, was at the office of a sporting paper in this city yesterday aftermoon prepared to meet Jim Corbett or his representative for the purpose of arranging the details of the Corbett-Sharkey fight in December. For the second time within a week . Corbett failed to show up either in person or by representative and sent no excuse. Lynch was, considerably nettled and spoke his mind pretty freely. He said: Til give him until Wednesday, and if he does not come to time then I will tell him what our intentions are. Then I will arrange for another meeting and if he then fails to appear my man will throw him over and consider propositions from Bob Fitzsimmons or Peter Maher. But we will not let Corbett rest. Whenever Sharkey meets Corbett on -the street he will try and lick him then and there. Sharkey will keep this up until Jim comes to

Of course scarcely any opinion of Sharker's merits or demerits could be obtained as John L. was so fat and unwieldly that he was in his own way. The Californian is andoubtedly a powerful man and very fast, but beyond that he had no opportunity of showing what he could do. The crowd were perfectly satisfied to see the man who is trying to get on a match to a finish with Corbett next December, and did not expect to

THE TURKISH RIOTS

Alleged Armenian Anarchists Accused by the Government.

OUTCOME OF A PRE-ARRANGED PLOT

Turkish Officials Declare That the Outbreak Was Not Confined to the Ottoman Bank - Women Blown to Pieces and Men Beheaded.

Washington, Sept 1 .- The Turkish legation has received from the sublime porte the following telegram: "The central committee of Armenian revolutionists of Constantinople organized on a vast scale a programme of disorder and criminal acts. Separate groups of the revolutionists began their misdeeds at the same hour, but at different points of the capital. Besides revolvers and daggers they used bombs of dynamite. About fifty of these men, entering separately into the Imperial Ottoman bank, began by killing the guards and policeman, throwing their heads in the street. Availing themselves of the general confusion that resulted they shut the doors of the bank and fired and threw bombs from the windows on the passers-by. Four Turkish ladies were cut to pieces by one explosion and two French clerks of the bank wounded and would have been killed if Turkish soldiers had not come to their rescue. At the same moment the ham of Djelal Bey, situated at Stamboul, was taken possession of by other revolutionists, who threw a rain of bombs on those who happened to be in the streets near by. At Haskeni the military was attacked and one officer and many soldiers were killed. At the Psowatia quarter another band of Armenian anarchists took possession of the public school and began there, too, to throw bombs in all directions, killing many innocent victims. In many parts of the capital, and even in the Armenian church of Ferd, a great number of dynamite bombs were discovered. The Armenians, faithful to the imperial throne, are indignant, and their patriarch excommunicated in the name of Jesus Christ all the criminals who put in jeopardy the life of innocent men and women. The patriarch begged the subtime porte to communicate to the press his decision against the revolutionists in order to stigmatize before the civilized world their crimes and horrors. A special commission has been instituted to judge the revolutionists caught in arms as well as all Musselmans who have been arrested under the charge of retaliation. The commission is composed of eight Christians and Musselmans under the presidency of Djeial Bey, member of the high court of Turkey."

ORDERED TO TURKEY.

The Craiser Cincianati To Proceed in October to the Asiatic Station. Washington, Sept. 1.-The cruiser incinnati has been ordered to Turkey. this does not affect the crise of the Cancrott, that vessel being destined exclusively for duty as guardship to the American legation at Constantinope, while the Cincinnati and other vessels of the squadron are to remain in Turkish waters outside the Dardaaelles unless circumstances arise to call for reinforcements and a display of naval force. It is explained at the ravy department that the orders to the Cincinnati have been in contemplation for some time and there is no particular significance in their publication at the present juncture. It is also said that it is the intention of the lepartment to bring the Marblehead home as soon as she can be spared from the Mediterranean, as the time of a great many men on the station has expered, and it is hoped to gather them all on the Marblehead for the homeward cruise. So it is argued really no increase in the force in Turkish waters is designed unless, eventually, affairs appear to warrant it. According to the present understanding the Cincipnati will continue with Admiral Bunce's squadron several weeks yet and will time her movements to reach Smyrna in October, about the time the Banerott arrives at the entrance of the Bosphorus. BEAUTIFUL MISS STARBIRD.

BY CAROLINE L. FIELD.

Petticeat Lane is but a stone's throw from Gilbury Green. It is not very wide and not particularly straight, but it is wonderfully pretty of a June morning, say, when the rising sun streams in beneath the huge clms that stand like staunch men-at-arms, holding up a fair green canopy for Queen Summer to walk under; or of an August evening when the same bright orb, a little flushed with his day's run, sends a rosier flood from the west to linger lovingly along the greensward that lies broad and cool on both sides of the way.

The grass is always green in Petticoat Lane from April till December, for a little brook runs singing down from Peddock's Hill to the west river, and it finds the lane so pleasant a place that it runs beside it as far as it can-crossing from one side to the other, midway of its course, with a charming underground gurgle and rush, as beguiling to little ears as is the low, broad surface of the stone guard-wall to little feet. The wall is very old. All its cool, dark crevices are hung with ferns, and its stones are veiled with moss. The lane teelf is very old and its houses date back to long ago. Just where the narrow brown roadway makes its last curve to join the north turnpike stands the oldest house of all. The long, shingled roof slopes down nearly to the grass behind. A tall, weather-worn well-sweep rises higher than the five flued stone chimneys on one side, and on the other an ample stoop, with queer wooden benches at either end, gives entrance to the wide central hallway. At intervals along the lane stand other houses, old, also. This is the historic part of Gilbury. On other thoroughfares, dignified by the name of streets, there are dwellings which were built as recently as 50 years ago; on Petticoat Lane no house has seen fewer than 150 summers, and no summer of them all has opened upon the earth with fairer promise than that in which my story opens. The story may be said to have begun when Grandmother Starbird received, one fair May morning some 20 years ago, a letter written on thin, foreign paper, and having a blue, a gray and a yellow stamp on the envelope. Postmaster Faxon looked at it twice, once through his spectacles and once over them, before he put it into the Starbird box, and old Joshua Plummer, who usually acted as mail-earrier for the "far end o' the lane," studied King Victor Emanuel's face all the way up town, until he would have recognized him anywhere. Grandmother Starbird no sooner set eyes upon the letter than she flung the gray yarn stocking she was knitting across the room, and pushed Joshua Plummer into the nearest chair while she ran to fetch him a glass of her oldest current wine as a reward of merit.

"There, drink that, Joshua, and wish me joy! Elinor is coming home." Joshua eyed her shrewdly. The currant wine, or something else, had set his little oid eyes a-twinkle.

"Do tell, Mis' Starbird, if you can read letters afore ye open on 'eau That's a terrible flimsy arrivelope, an' no mistake, but I didn't know as your eyes was quite so keen."

"I don't need to read it, Joshua, except to find what day she'll be here. She was 21 years old a fortni't ago Tuesday. When her mother's folks took hor away she said she should come back as soon as she was her own mistress, and Elinor Starbird never breaks her

"H'm! That'll kinder rile Uncle Havnes, now, won't it?" remarked the old man in a tone that said Uncle liaynes' riling was a matter of small concern to either of the persons pres-

Joshua Piummer chuckled.

"Well, I'll be goin along. That wine s most excellent good! Ye ha'n't read fer letter yet, but as ye seem so plug sure of what's into it I s'pose there ain't no objections to my spreadin' the news spread. Gilbury was all agog. Six years before a slim, fair-haired girl, just out of short dresses, had sat on all their doorsteps, and eaten upples from all their early apple trees, and they had regarded her as being like themselves, loving and lovable, but in nowise uncommon. Now, however, it was different, Fashion, fortune and foreign travel had all materialized to Gilbury in the person of Elinor Starbird--"the beautiful Miss Starbird," as she had come to be called out youder in the great world. When Uncle Haynes who was also "Guardeen" Haynes, had persisted in carrying his charge off to Europe-as he alleged, for the completion of her education, but as all Gilbury keenly realized, to wean her from her father's family and old associationsne one but Grandmother Starbird supposed she would ever return to dwell among her own people as before. Now that her coming was imminent only the same old lady seemed able to await it with calmness. In this old New England village, peopled largely by the descendants of the original settlers, the long habit of friendship and neighborhood had grown to be second only to the bond of blood. Their old friend's grandchild had been like a grandchild to them all, and her taking away had been deeply resented by them all. Now that she was soon to come among them again no other subject could occupy thought or speech for the time being. Would she come alone, or would Uncle Haynes follow, since he could no longer lead? Would her stay be short or long? Would she still be the frank, open-hearted girl they had known, or would time and travel have changed, and worldly polish have hardened her? All these points could but be guessed at. But two things were certain: She would be a woman grown, and all her clothing would be fresh from Paris. There was not a girl in Gilbury, with any pretension to social standing, who did not spend the waking hours of those two expectant weeks in overhauling and retouching her summer wardrobe. There were few housekeepers who did not meditate certain fresh touches to their parlors and parlor bedrooms.

Meantime Grandmother Starbirdknit sheet from its thin envelope and re-read the first three sentences:

I shall sail for America, by the Castalia, on the 20th. Expect me at home by June first. * * *"

That was the one salient point of the whole letter to its recipient. She paid small attention to the clever accounts of Roman ways and wonders that followed, beyond reading them through once, as in duty bound. What was the triumph of Titus, or the beauty of Queen Margherita to her who had triumphed at last over Uncle Haynes, and whose granddaughter was the acknowledged star of the American world

She bore her triumph calmly, however, as she had formerly borne de-

She's an heiress, an' a belle, an'-well-Gilbury's stayed about the same it always was, like the house, an' it won't be surprisin' if she finds it kind of narrer, an' old-fashioned, an' dingy, after Paris, an' Rome, an' them. I'd fix up a little, seems to me."

Grandmother Starbird drew out one of her bright, slender needles and stack it in the knitting-sheath, which was fastened at her belt. There was a curiously unruffled smile on her kindly old

"Ef Ellerner Starbird ha'n't forgot us all she'll take us as we be," said old Mr. Cartheart, voicing in his blunt, ungrammatical way what many of the neighbors, who were too well-bred to express it, felt. "An' ef she has forgot, what on airth should we put ourselves out for?"

LAUNDERING SILK VESTS. A Suggestion for Renovating Delicate

Handkerchiefs and Silk Parasols. The very popular blazer suits when not worn with a regular shirt waist often have only wash or china silk fronts as a finish, particularly if the suits themselves are of cotton or linen duck, or grass linen, and as these soil quite quickly they need frequent laundering in order to preserve the des red daintiness of appearance. Too often, however, they are ruined by careless washing and ironing, and are useless

A very simple and pretty front is made of wash silk, curved out of the throat lines and basted on a stiff collar, about which a ribbon is tied, finishing in a bow at the back. The silk is long enough to hang a little full at the waist, a thread is run about two inches from the Lottom, drawing the fullness into the front, and this is tucked under the band of the skirt and held firmly In place by the belt of leather or ribbon. To launder this all that is necessary is to rip it off the collar, let out the drawing thread, wash it thoroughly in warm con outs, rinse in cold water, and while etill thry wet pin it, stretched tightly, m: 100 oard or any smooth surface. The dry it will be as free from rinlls as if ironed and as soft as per citi. It is a great mistake ever to con this, sills, as, if done when damp, it elemes as enachly as paper, while if allow it to the tilt dry first it is almost my ob 'll in ent rely remove the rough the according to unless a very hot iron a reed, in which case there is danger of corel, ir. I'm irons are not always or center things to obtain when not in me's own home, and a knowledge of how to obtain satisfactory results without them is not to be ignored.

Delicate handkerchiefs, if carefully washed, and while very wet spread on a mirror or window pane and left there till perfectly dry, will look as though peausitally froned:

Chamois gloves should be washed on the hands, all the seams pushed into their right places, and the gloves partly dried with a soft towel before being gently removed, stretched as when new, and left to complete the process in the fresh air. Before wearing they should be rubbed slightly to take away the stiffness, which is characteristic of chamois after being wet.

A good scheme for freshening the appearance of white silk parasols, or any silk that will stand water, is to wet them thoroughly all over, open them and let them remain so until drv. All wrinkles are done away with and instead of a mussy, half-worn-looking article one has an apparently new parasol, with all the beauty of its pristine whiteness restored.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

SHOT FOR A COMPANION'S LIFE. Cut the Rope by Which lie Hang with a

Kifle Bullet. Cutliffe Hyne tells the story of a couple of young Englishmen in Peru who were captured by a notorious guerrilla while fighting in the Chilian service, and condemned to death on the following conditions: That one should be hung by the neck from a tree, and the other given a rifle to cut the rope by shooting at it. "They hunded me the rifle loaded and cocked. It was a single-shot Wincheser, and I found afterward, though I did not know it then, that either through fiendish wish to further hamper my aim or through pure forgetfulness, they had left the sights cocked up at 300 yards. But that did not matter. The elevation was a detail of minor import, besides I was handling the weapon as a game shot fires, with head and eyes glued on the mark, and rifle barrel following the eyes by instinct alone. You must remember that I had no stationary mark to aim at. My poor comrade was writhing and swaying at the end of his tether, and the well rope swung hither and thither like some contorted pendulum. Once I fired, twice I fired, six times, ten times, and still the rope remained uncut, and the bullets rattled harmlessly against the white walls of the chapel beyond With the 11th shot came the tingle of broken glass, and the bell, after a couple of hurried, nervous clangs, ceased tollng altogether. With the 13th shot a shout went up from the watching crowd. I had stranded the rope, and the body which dangled below the magnolia tree began slowly to gyrate. "Then came a halt in the firing.

handed the Winchester back to the fellow who was reloading. But somehow or other the exploded cartridge had jammed in the breech. I danced and raged before him in my passion of hurry, and the cruel brutes round yelled in ecstasies of merriment. Only Garcia did not laugh. He rerolled a fresh cigarette with his thin, yellow fingers, and leisurely rocked himself in the split-cane chair. The man could not have been more unmoved had he been overlooking a performance of Shakespeare. At last I tore the Winchester from the hands of the fellow who was fumbling with it and clawed at the jammed cartridge myself, breaking my nails and smearing the breechlock with blood. If it had been welded into one solid piece it could hardly have been firmer. But the thrill of the moment gave my hands the strength of pincers. The brass case moved from side to side: it began to crumble, and I drew it forth and hurled it away from me, a more ball of shapeless, twisted metal. Then one of the laughing brutes gave me another cartridge, and once more I shouldered the loaded weapon. The mark was easier now. The struggles of my poor friend had almost ceased, and, though the well rope still swayed, its movements were comparatively rhythmical and could be counted upon. I snapped down the sights, put the butt plate to my shoulder and cuddled the stock with my check. Here, for the first time, was a chance for something steadier than a snap shot. I pressed home the trigger as the well rope reached one extremity of its swing. Again a few loose ends sprung from the rope, and again the body began slowly to gyrate. But was it Methuen I was firing to save or was I merely wasting shot to cut down a mass of cold, dead clay? "I think that more agony was compressed for me in a few minutes that most men meet in a lifetime. Even the onlooking guerrillas were so stirred that for the first time their gibing eared, and two of them, of their own accord, handed me cartridges. I slipped one home and closed the breechlock. The perspiration was running in a stream from my chin. Again I fired. Again the wellrope was snipped, and I coud see the loosened strands ripple out as a snake unwraps itself from a branch. One more shot. God in Heaven, I missed! Why was I made to be a murderer like this? Garcia's voice came to me coldly. 'Your last chance senor. I can be kept waiting here no longer. And I think you are wasting time. Your friend seems to have quit ted us already.' Another cartridge. I sank to one knee and rested my left elbow on the other. The plaza was hung in breathless silence. Every eye was strained to see the outcome of the shot. The men might be inhuman in their cruelty, but they were human enough in their curiosity. The body swung to one end of its swing: I held my fire. It swung back, and the ritle muzzle followed. Like some mournful pendulum, it passed through the air, and then a glow of certainty filled not like a drink; I knew that I could not miss that time, and I fired; and the body, in a limp and shapeless heap, fell to the ground."—Pearson's Magazine.

CITY OF MIDDLETOWN.

The Democratic electors of the several wards of the city of Middletown will meet at the places designated below on Friday evening. Sept. 4th, 1896, at 7 O'clork, to select delegates to attend the Assembly-State Convention, to be held at the Assembly Rooms, on Satutday. Sept. 5th, to elect delegates to the State Convention.

Also at the same time and place to elect delegates to the Congressional, County and Assembly Conventions. The First and Third Wards are entitled to three and the Second and Fourth Wards to four delegates, and to the Assembly Assembly

Since Mr. Hanna returned from Illinois and has seen the great outpourings of the people to greet Mr. Bryan in the Empire State, he has become a victim of nervous headaches and has grown peevish. Those who meet him now observe that he is not so chipper as he was when he first came to New York to assess the bankers and other money kings and put his campaign machinery in motion. He has discovered that the people as well as gold bugs are taking a hand in the campaign.

In his speech at Carnegie Hall, in New York, June 23d, Frank S. Black praised Mr. Platt as an "unmatched and victorious leader," to whom the Republican organization owes "a greater deht than it has owed to any other man in the last twenty-five years." Great as is the debt Mr. Black thinks the Republican party owes Platt, it is nothing to the debt he owes the boss who discovered and created him. He can only pay that debt by serving that master loyally it elevated to the gubernatorial chair, and the people of New York have no use for a Governor owned by one man. What this State needs is a Governor for all the people.

The keynote of yesterday's convention of bolting Democrats was insincerity. They have but one object in view, the d feat of Bryan, which is possible only through the election of McKinley. Most of the leaders of yesterday's convention will vote for McKinley, but they are preparing to put an independent ticket in the field to eatch the votes of men of more sincere, convictions, who cannot be persuaded to vote for the Republican ticket. It is plainly impossible for men engaged in work of this kind to respect themselves or command the respect of others. No wonder a deadly frost setiled on yesterday's convention.

The bolting Democrats did not have much of a conventional Syracuse, yesterday. Outside of the New York and Brooklyn delegations the attendance was small and the proceedings were void or interest or enthusiasm. Even when the delegates wrangled among themselves over the platform and everything else that it was possible to wrangle about they did so in a perfunctory way, as if they felt it a duty to prove that they were always "kickers," and that nothing could suit them. Edward M Shepherd, of Brooklys, who has not voted Gendache bad? Get Miles' Pain Pills.

a Democratic ticket in years, but who persists in calling himself a Democrat, because it gives him greater opportunities for fomenting strife and discord, carried a motion for another convention in Brooklyn on Sept. 24th to nominate an independent State ticket. This is such a frank admission of a purpose to help the Republicans in every possible way that it will cause many Democrats, who have been hesitating as to their political course, to turn their backs on leaders who are aiming to destroy the party they profess to love. There are very few Democrats in this State who can be induced to give even indirect support to Platt's man, Black, the political bigot who just before his nomination for Governor put himself on record as believing that a Democrat is the embodiment of all political iniquity.

The enthusiasm with which Bryan was grected in Cleveland, Ashtabula and other places in Northern Ohio, yesterday, makes close political observers believe that McKinley is not by any means sure of his own State. The Herald, which no one can accuse of friendliness to Bryan, is constrained to say that the "Ohio counties lying along Lake Erie seem to need the personal attention of Major McKinley and Mark Hanna. The campaign of education is either in a backward state or else a portion of the Republicans are past educating." The demonstration in Cleveland has rarely, if ever, been match ed in Ohio and nothing like it has ever been achieved by the Democracy of Northern Ohio.

One of the most encouraging signs of the growth of popular sentiment in favor of Bryan and Sewall is the attitude of the New York Sun. No presidential candidate supported by the Sun within the memory of the present generation has been elected, and when that paper have been the most bitter in its opposition to Democratic nominees the greater has been the majorities for the candidates opposed by it. This year the Sun is beating its own record in slinging mud at the Democratic candidates. It has descended to a level that its most devoted admirers never dreamed that it could reach, and in view of the Sun's hoodoo record the people may take fresh courage and look forward with confidence to the election of the people's candidates in November.

EARL LI DISAPPOINTED THEM.

Refused to Go Ashore at West Point and Wet His Peacock Feather and Yellow Jacket-Thousands Waiting in the Rain to See Rim.

Four or five thousand people went to West Point, yesterday, to see Li Hung Chang, the Chinese Embassador, but they were sorely disappointed, and now accuse the distinguished Chinaman of 'discourtesy."

The crowd stood for hours in the pourtitled to three and the Second and Fourth Wards to four delegates each to the Assembly, Assembly, State and County Conventions, and each ward to one delegate to the Congressional Convention.

Places for holding primaries—
Pirst Ward—Monlagen Hose House.
Second Ward—Phoeny Engine House.
Third Ward—Commercial Hotel.

Fourth Ward—Holding House.

By order City Committee.

The crowd stood for hours in the pouring rain waiting for the dispatch boat Dolphin, which did not arrive until 12:50.

At 1:20 a boat put of from the Dolphin with one of Gen. Ruger's aids, who informed the commandant of the post that Li Hung Chang would not come ashore.

Later another boat went ashore with Gen. Ruger and staff and balf a dozen Chinamen, among them the son. They were driven about the grounds of the post in carriages, a salute of seventeen guns being fired in honor of Gen. Ruger, and then the carriages returned to the dock, the guests embarked and the Dolphin steamed away, the men who had taken a soaking swore and the women felt like doing the same.

"It is too wet," was the explanation of Li's refusal to go ashore. He did not propose to have his peacock feather bedraggled and his yellow jacket spoiled to gratify the curiosity of a few Ameri-

Correspondence Angus And Mencuny,

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terwilliger, in Bruynswick, on Wednesday, Aug. 26th, at 12 o'clock. Ellsworth W. Decker, of Crawtord, and Miss Estella A. McElroy, of Monroe, were united in marriage by the Rev. Wm. R. Currie, of Colesville, N. J.

It was a quiet, yet very pretty affair. The parior was neatly trimmed with flowers and evergreens, a bell preftily decorated hanging in the centre of the decorations. The bride was dressed in white sik trimmed with white lace and satingribbons; her head was adorned with a pretty bridal wreath and veil. The bridesmaid, Miss Elia Mack, of Crawford, wore a cream Dresden silk with white lace and Dresden ribbon. The groomsman was James Terwilliger, of Crawford. The nead of honor, who bore the ring on a tiny silver tray was about seven years old. Some of the relatives and friends that were present were as follows: Gilbert Decker, postmaster of Crawford and tather of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Mack, Will M. Mack, James Hall, or Monroe: Mrs. Merwin and daughter, of Braynswick.

A Taste of Frost.

There was a very light frost in some places in this locality, last night. Ira-Ketcham, of Mount Hope, discovered a light coating on a tin roof on his premises when he went out about daylight. It was barely enough to call it trost and did no damage to vegetation.

It is also reported that there was a light frost along the Wallkill which left its mark on the tips of corn blad s.

MET A HORRIBLE DEATH.

George W. Halstead Ground to Pieces Under a Train in Port Jervis.

Switchman George W. Halstead met a terrible death in the Port Jervis yard. Saturday atternoon. He was walking l ahead or a section of a train that was backing up to make a coupling, when his foot caught in a frog and he was unable to extricate it before the traincame upon

His body was so terribly mangled that it was beyond recognition. The accident happened at 4:30 in the afternoon and as late as 11 o'clock at night pieces of the body were found.

Halstead was twenty-seven years old. He was born in Wawayanda and was a son of Theodore and Sarah A. Halstead. He is survived by his father, by tour brothers, Chas. A., Oscar. Emmet and Israel D., all of Port Jervis, and one daughter, Henrielta, who of S. R. Crawrord, or Eldred; also by his wife, whose maiden name was Mary Skinner, and b three children.

Had Taken a Little "Tea" and Wanted

A woman acted very strangely at the East Main depot, last evening, and many people supposed she was crazy and called Officer Faulkner's attention to her.

After talking to her a moment Mr. Faulkner suspected that she had been drinking and asked: "Haven't you been taking a little tea?

"Yes," replied the woman, "and I'll take a little with you it you say so." Confirmed in his suspicion, the officer merely kept his eye on the woman until she was safely on board the train for which she was waiting.

AN ANNIVERSARY RECEPTION.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Receive In Honor of the Twentieth Anniversary of Their

The reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Gordon, last night, to the members of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church and other friends was a most interesting social event. The manse was handsomely decorated for the occasion with plants and flowers, and the large verandah was enclosed with curtains, on which were entwined green vines, and the interior was britliantly illuminated with electric lights, the whole giving a very pretty effect.

The reception was in honor of the not generally known until the guests ar-RIVAL CLAIMANTS FOR A HORSE Capt. Gould Called on to Decide a Knotty Question.

Considerable excitement was raised on Fulton street, this morning, by three or four young men stopping a borse driven by another young man, and unharnessing the animal, the driver meanwhile uttering his protestations, claiming ownership of the horse while the other parties claimed the horse.

Finally it was concluded to go to police headquarters to decide the matter and the horse was taken along, a big crowd of boys following.

Capt. Gould gathered from the stories of both sides that the horse belonged to a man, who was recently buried by the Poormusier of Chester: that the man who had it in his possession was a stepson and claumed possession through his mother's night, while the others claimed the horse as sons of the original owner.

tapt. Gould decided that the horse belonged to the poormaster of Chester until the funeral expenses of the owner had been paid, and advised the parties to reser the matter to them.

betray it. Nevertheless, most of them did look around out of the corner of one e 'e when Grandmother Starbird's soft Lack silk and gray barege shawl moved quietly up the aisle. But they might have spared themselves the trouble. No one followed the old lody; she let herself into the square pew, buttoned the door behind her, and sat serenely down, alone. There was a general turning of heads and exchange of wondering glances, a few sniffs and tosses of disapproval and chagrin, and then the bell ceased tolling, and the good old rector began to read the service.

Well, they got through it somehow. They confessed their sins and were forgiven; they read the psalter, they responded, they sat reasonably still through the sermon, and some of them recovered breath to join in the les hymn, led by the unseen choir behind and above them, whose music seemed sweeter and more rounded, somehow. than usual. They were blessed and dismissed, and truned to leave their pews. And then they saw her-saw her standing among the other singers, just as she used to stand, dressed simply and freshly in white, as she used to dress, but with a fuller, rounder grace in the tall, womanly figure, and a glad, happy light in the face that bent earnestly forward to find old friends among the groups below. Such a face! No wonder Europe called her "the beautiful American." for her hair was like an aureole, and her eyes like stars, and the clear tints of her skin, and the noble contour of her features were like nothing that Gilbury think Elinor herself hardly knewjust how and when she ceased to lean from above and began to be down there among them all. They came about her like bees about their queen, and she knew them all and called them all by name. There was no further thought of new bonnets or fine houses. In the 20 minutes that they stood there she had them all. New Englanders though they were, at her feet, and took up with infinite tact and grace a social scepter such as few can wield. She was the same sweet girl they had known and loved always, but the subtle differences of growth, physical and mental, and the years in which she had been held aloof from them, and from her home, by those in legal control, enveloped her in somewhat of distance and mystery, as if she had spent the time in Heaven, and a mightier flood than the Atlantic had rolled between them.

None of them ever quite realized-I had ever seen before.

When gradually and reluctantly, one by one, they had all slipped away. and she stood alone with Grandmother Starbird and the rector, the old man turned to her again and took her hand.

"My dear child," he said, in tones deeply stirred from their wonted quiet, "you left us a child under authority you come back to us a woman, with creat gifts, great wealth and great beauty, and you have taken our hearts by storm. What will you do with all this power that is placed in your

He watched her keenly for the answer, but the face uplifted to him might have been that of the child he told her of, so free was it from any taint of consciousness or vain-glory, so clear and pure were the wonderful eyes that shone through unshed tears.

"It is not because of my wealth or my beauty that they welcomed me with ench loyal affection," she said simply, "but because I have always loved these eld friends and rever forgotten them. It seems to me that now I have come back to spend my life among them I can do no better than just to keep on loving and remembering."

The rector's eyes grew suddenly dim, and all their keemess vanished. He raised the fair, firm hand to his lips as if it had been the hand of the little one whom Christ set in the midst.

"You are right, my child," he said gravely and reverently, "love and remember. There is no surer and no grander way."-Ladies' Home Journal.

Cats and Men.

The ent was a solitary roamer, whose componions were the trees of its native prests. It found a home in the hollow hank and safety among the branches. flow do we know that the cat's oncester's were dwellers in the forest? Because every kitten takes to a tree as readily as a dack to water. Also, because nearly all forest dwellers are mottled in color, so that they may not be conspicuous among the light and shadows beneath the trees. While I was considering what was the probable view held by cuts about human beings, it was suggested by one ingenious friend that probably they regard man as a hind of a locomotive tree, pleasant to rub up against, the lower limbs of which offord a comfortable sent, and from whose upper branches oceasionally droptid-bits of riution and other luscious fruits. We may laugh at the theory. but it has quite a respectable string of facts behind it to back it up. If the Kanakas argued from the pig to the horse, why should the cat not pass from the familiar tree to the unfamiliar orpanism called man. The cat, in spite of the domestic character it has acquired, is in reality the least tame of our unimal servants. As far as its duties are concerned, man has taught it practically rothing. Its methods of pursuing rate, taice and birds are all entirely its own. It is indeed rather a wild animal which has taken up its residence in our housest for its own purposes than a servent or a slave.—North American Review.

Was abased by an Earthquake. Boothby told us another story about phenomenal natural disturbance. He said he feit tender about it because he had figured prominently in it himself. The story concerned a habit engineers on the Vandalia and the Ohio & Mississippi roads had of racing. Just east of East St. Louis is the crossing of a belt railroad, and from there on to the bluffs, seven miles away, is a straight streak of parallel track. As the outgoing passenger trains all leave East St. Louis at about the same time, it was the regular thing for Ohio & Mi. sissippi and Van engineers to hammer for their lives over the seven miles, while the passengers yelled defiance at one another and whooped and got excited. The Ohio & Mississippi had one engine, the 60, which was able to walk away from everything ever put up against her. She had humiliated all the Vandalia engineers, except Boothby, and he fairly ached to get at her. One day, just as he had whistled for the crossing, he heard another whistle, and, looking over, saw the Ohio & Mississippi train abreast. The engine's number was 69.

Boothby straightened up for the race of his life. Tenderly, notch by notch, he opened the throttle, while the fireman kept the old kettle just of the popping point. Over the belt tracks they went, the 60 alongside. To his joy, Boothby saw he was inching away from his opponent. Like a statue he sat, coddling the machine. and at the first mile he was two coach lengths to the good. His passengers were shricking their joy, while those on the O. & M. were dumb. The O. & M. crew, too, seemed astonished, and gathered on the platforms to look over at the Van's new racer. It was Boothby's race in a walk.

Suddenly the Van engineer saw something was happening. Looking over his shoulder he found the O. & M. train only half a car length back and surging along like lightning. It scared him, and he pulked her still wider open. Then did that noble 182 respond. She leaped through the air, hardly seeming to touch the rails. Right at her shoulder was the 60. Boothby gave her more. They were both going within a mile a minute. Boothby said he never saw a locomotive go like the 60, but he knew his machine was as good as the best. They plunged forward more furiously than the wind. Three miles, four, five, and then-oh, joy!-the 60 began to fall back. At the sixth mile she was two coach lengths behind, and as the trains swept away from each other at the base of the bluffs the O. & M. train was three lengths off to the rear.

At Collinsville Hank Hibbard, whitefaced, came rushing up to the 152 as she lay under the water tank getting water.

"Great heavens, Boothby!" cried the conductor, "do you know what you've been running against?" "The O. & M.'s hottest stuff, and I cooled it for 'em." "Yes, you have: You've been runping against an earthquake. The O. & M. train was pic'ted up by it just out of town. A hill 20 feet high followed her last Pallman and she was running down hill the entire way, being pushed "Say, Hank," said Boothby, "did that earthquake belp us any?" No: we were 100 yards ahead all the forward all the distance."

Boothby climbed back on his box and Hibbard returned to the train. But although Loothby's achievement brought plory to his roundhouse. he would never race again. He said he didn't mind whipping an ordinary engive run by ordinary steam, but be didn't want to combat a thing that "laid up" with devils and was in league with cyclone, storm and earthquake. These are the two instructive stories told by Engineer Boothby to David Lawrence and myself-two trusting evelists who stopped to rest with him. Chicago News.

cisé too often means a promenade for personal pleasure, in which the wellbeing of a child is not for a moment considered. He is held in a tight rein, made to walk slow or fast to suit his conductor, jerked away from sights that attracts his attention, snubbed when he asks questions and scolded in a hard, mechanical way that has the inevitable effect of dulling his sensibilities, and either making him rebeilious or cowardly, as his disposition inclines toward boldness or timidity. One hour's untrammeled freedom were worth, for health, days of such perfunctory outings, and the moral effect would be far

Doubtless much of the docility of the country child indoors is owing to the liberty he enjoys out of the house. If our city children had playgrounds of their own, there would be much less insubordination among them. But if we cannot altogether satisfy their natural desires, let us at least do what we can. Let us give them every innocent liberty. recollecting that staid as we ourselves are now, there was a time when the feeling of the sun hine and fresh air mounted like wine to our heads, when our blood stirred in quicker currents. our muscles twitched with the impulses of motion, and a little physical freedom, of the kind young animals enjoy, seemed to us the finest thing in the world .-Ladies' Home Companion.

In summer-time, more especially, disease germs fill the air, multitudes are infected, fall ill, die; multitudes escape. These messengers of mischief do not exist for millions. Why not? Because they are healthy and strong-protected as a crocodile is against gun-shot. It is the weak, the wasted, the thinblooded who fall; those who have no resistive power so that a sudden cough or cold develops into graver disease. We hear of catching disease! Why not catch health? In Their Graves Which He Had Come a Long Ways to See.

Just across the way from the depot was the town graveyard and sitting on a baggage truck on the platform was a ragged, lonesome-looking man, whom anyone would have spotted at once for a tramp. There were a dozen of us walking up and down as we waited for the train, but for a quarter of an hour the tramp sat with his head in his hands and had nothing to say to anyone. Then a passenger, who was evidently on good terms with himself, walked up to the man and said:

"Dead broke, of course, old man?" "Yes, dead broke," replied the man on the truck, as he looked up.

"Haven't had anything to eat in two or three days, ch?"

"Not since yesterday morning." "Willing to work, but your health won't permit. I take it, as is the case with all the rest of 'em'" "My health ain't overly good," replied the tramp after a bit. "No, of course not," laughed the man. Perhaps you are also worrying about your family? Don't you want to raise e dollar to get home in time to see your wife die?"

"Come along, you-come along, gents," said the framp as he rose up and climbed back to the graveyard fence.

Half a dozen of us followed him and as we reached the fence and looked over he pointed to three graves which were so new that the grass had not yet taken root and said:

"There's the family-wife and two children! A week ago I was 100 miles away, but I got to thinking about these graves and I couldn't stay away. This morning I finished my walk and I was waiting for the train to go before I came up here. Yes, I'm dead broke and hungry and in poor health and a tramp. and there's the reason of it. When they died it broke me up."

One by one we went back to the platform. The tramp came last of all and he was going away without looking at us when the man who had chaffed him put the money we had raised in his hand, added a five dollar bill from his own pocket and kindly said:

"Take it, old man, and better luck go with you. I'm sorry I spoke as I did."-Chicago News.

MUSCLE VS. MACHINERY.

Facts Showing the Man Power a Modern Prime Mover Represents.

What a puny thing is muscular power whether animal or human, when compared with the vast efforts exerted nowadays by machinery, was well illustrated some time ago by an English scientist. Sir Frederick Bramwell.

Contrasting a galley, for example—a ressel propelled by oars-with a modera Atlantic liner, and assuming that prime movers were non-existent, and that this vessel was to be propelled after galley fashion, he proceeded thus: Take the length of the vessel as 606 feet, and assume that place could be found for as many as 400 oars on each side, each oar worked by three men, or 2.400 men, and allow that six men under these conditions could develop work equal to one horse-power. We should then have 400 horse-power. Double the number of men and we should have 800 horse-power, with 4.800 men at work. and at least the same number in reserve if the journey is to be carried out continuously.

Contrast the puny result thus obtained with 19,500 horse-power given forth by a large prime mover of the present day, such a power requiring on the above mode of calculation 117,000 men at work and 117,000 in reserve, and these to be carried in a vessel less than 600 feet in length. Even if it were possible to earry this number of men in such a vessel, by no conceivable means could their power be utilized so as to impart to it a speed of 20 knots an hour.

This illustrates how a prime mover may not only be a mere substitute for muscular work, but may afford the means of attaining an end that could not by any possibility be attained by muscular exertion, no matter what money was expended or what galleyslave suffering was inflicted.

Take, again, the case of a railway locomotive, in which from 400 to 600 horse-power is developed in an implement which, even including its tender, does not occupy an area of more than 50 square yards, and that can a vain a speed of more than 60 miles an hour. Here again the prime mover succeeds in doing that which no expenditure of money or of life could draw from mus cular effort.—N. Y. Journal.

Degenerating.

No jokes are better appreciated than those that are made unwittingly by sober-minded men. An Engl'sh journal relates a case in point, the sober-minded man being Mr. John Burns, a very serious member of the house of commons. He was speaking in a pessimistic strain about what he felt to be a great falling off in the character and standing of that august body. "Since I came into this house, four years ago," he said, "the confidence of the public in it has much diminished."-Youth's Companion.

LIGHT FROM PORT JERVIS.

The Old Drain Found Under the Eric Depot in this City.

The following appeared in Monday's issue of the Port Jervis Gazette:

To the Editor of the Port Jervis Gazette: The drain which was found in digging for the foundation for the new Eriedepot at Middletown, last week, my father, Dr. S. T. Barrett, of this village, remembers well, as he, at that time a little boy of ten, "assisted" in constructing it. It ran from somewhere in the neighborhood of the old James street depot to Mon-hagen brook. There had been previously to the time of its construction, a brick yard, a little west of the depot, and several clay pits had been dug which filled with water, and as soon as they were no longer pumped out, all that land lying west and northeast of the depot and along the railroad track was a large bog swamp extending from somewhere near the depot. South and east of James street was a little brook which now runs underground to the Monhagen brook. At that time east of James street was a tan yard, and this little brook was used to fill and drain the vats. He thinks there must be some people left in Midaletown who remembe these things as well as himself. "PETER."

Dated Port Jervis, Aug. 31.

Seems to Prove That Horses Should Not Be Worked Too Young. From the New York Herald.

If the veteran driver, Hirman Woodruff, were alive he would use phenomenal trotter by (2:09%) Page, J. C. Howland's Polonius, as an illustration of his contention that horses should not be worked much for speed until they are matured. Page was not speeded until he was five years old. Like Dexter, he ran in the field in summer and like him also, probably did not got-heartier-feedthan good sweet hay in winter. Hiram soundly deprecated feeding young horses grain, and in his book on "The Trotting Horse of America." he dilates on the advantages to be derived by breeder of the trotter by keeping grain away from the youngsters. Dexter, he relates, did not get a quart of oats until he was four years old.

TWO CHURCHES COMPLAINED OF

Wants Two Elmira Churches Indicted for Giving Away I ermented Wine in the Communion Service.

Dr. Amos S. Sillen, a manufacturer of wine, who resides in Elm 1a, has complained to the District Attorney of Chemung county that two churches of that city have violated the Raines law by giving away fermented wine at communion service.

The law is so broad in its prohibition of sales and gifts of wines and liquors on Sunday that on its face it seems to apply to churches and the District Attorney says it is his duty to bring the complaint to the attention of the next Grand Jury.

Dr. Sillen says he made the complaint because he does not think churches should use fermented wine in the communiouservice and because he wishes to test the constitutionality of the Raines law,

Engineers' Whistling Prohibited. From the Port Jervis Gazette

The good wives of New York Division engineers residing in Port Jervis and Matamoras are not allowed to know where their husbands are going, according to an order recently issued. Engineers have been accustomed when outgoing on their trips to whistle according to a code of signals whether they were bound for Newburgh or Jersey City. But the whistling became objectionable to somebody, and an order prohibiting it has been issued under pain of suspension. Now the families of engineers do not know whether their run is to Newburgh or Jersey City until their return.

-THE CENTRAL CLUB ORGANIZED.

Officers Elected Last Night-President Many Items of Personal and Local In-Berry's Speech-Committee on Bylaw Appointed.

A meeting of the Central Club was held in its rooms in the Eagle Building, last night. George H. Decker was elected chairman of the meeting and J. A. Hoar secretary. A permanent organization was effected by the election of the following officers:

President-D. W. Berry. Vice President-C. L. Elwood, Treasurer-John D. Stivers. Secretary-J. A. Hoar.

Mr. Berry, upon taking the chair, addressed the members as follows:

Fellow Members of the Central Club: For this honor conferred upon me by unanimous consent on your part 1 can do no less than express my hearty thanks, and trust that with your earnest cooperation we may found a club which will do credit to our enterprising city and to ourselves as members. Gentlemen, await your further pleasure.

A committee, consisting of D.W. Berry, A. L. Decker, A. E. Nickinson and J. C. R. Taylor, was appointed to draft suitable bylaws, and an adjournment was taken until Saturday night.

LACERATED BY BIRD SHOT.

shockingly Wounded by the Accidental Discharge of His Gun, From our Callicoon Correspondent.

Schleiermacher's is a summer boarding house, situated two mises north of this village, on the border of a forest in which is a natural pond covering about thirty acres.

On Friday a party of city people, who had been hunting and fishing, were grouping themselves on the shole of the pond to have their photographs taken, when G. W. Gee, a New Yorker, while bringing his gun into a vertical position was dangerously shot by the hammer catching in the bushes.

The charge of shot passed through his right hand, thence through his chin, lacerating his face and taking out one eye. Dr. Schonger, of North Branch, was called who decided to remove the wounded man at once to some hospital, but on arriving at Rockland station on the O. and W. it was found that it would be unsafe to remove him further, so he was left at Berringer's hotel, where he is under the care of Drs. Tuttle and Miller.

Meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Hudson Presbytery.

The semi-annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Hudson Presbytery will be held at Washingtonville, Thursday, Oct. 1st, 1896.

Our president was fortunately able to secure the services of Miss Fanny Perley, a missionary teacher in Utah, whose helpful presence will be a great addition to our increasingly interesting meetings. It is hoped that this early notice will enable a larger number of our ladies than usual to attend the meeting. Basket picnic as usual at the fall gathering.

POINTED LETTER.

A Peep Into Some Business Correspon-

In reply to a letter from a minister in New York who had inquired regarding some nourishing and healthful drink that would take the place of coffee for those who had been injured by coffee drinking, the following statements were made: "Our Postum coffee is a food drink which looks like the finest Mocha coffee and has the fragrant aroma. It ereams up with the golden brown color of old Java, and really seems to the coffee drinker a veritable cup of the much loved beverage, but it is made wholly and entirely of grains, and is decidedly fattening and nourishing. The stomach tronbles and bowel and liver comd aints disappear under its use, for the reason that the real coffee, which contains the same poisonous alkaloids as strychnine, tobacco, whiskey and morphine, has been dismissed and pure food in a liquid form taken in its place. Postum is shipped to physicians, and by or .er of physicians, to various parts of the country; a package containing enough for 50 cups is sent for 25 cents, postpaid: 12 packages by express prepaid $2.50.

It is used by the children and their parents freely with good results. It is highly recommended by the medical profession and others, but we take the position that a preparation that is made of nature's pure grains alone, needs no human endorsement. It has its health certificate from a higher source. Very respectfully, Fostum Cereal Co., Lim., Battle Creek, Mich.

There is but one genuine original Postum Cereal conee, with a multitude of imitations offered as "just as good."
